RACHEL ANKERHOLZ

Speaker, Strategist, & AI Governance Authority

ABOUT

Rachel Ankerholz brings a perspective most speakers can't — she's actually inside the infrastructure. As an IT Director managing technology for 45,000 scholars, co-builder of AuditAble, and author of the forthcoming Tilled Mind Method, she speaks from the inside of the systems she's asking hard questions about. Her talks make complex systems legible: not simplified, but accessible.

SIGNATURE TOPICS

AI Governance Without the Jargon
What every C-suite leader needs to know before it's legally required.

Accessibility as a Civil Right, Not a Checkbox
How AI is widening the disability gap, and how to close it.

The Human Cost of Unchecked AI
Who bears the weight when algorithms make consequential decisions.

Trauma-Informed Technology
Designing systems that don't re-wound the people they're meant to serve.

Building Ethical AI Infrastructure at Scale
A practitioner's framework from someone who's actually done it.

The Neurodivergent Advantage in Systems Thinking
